

"I Want to Sleep in Comfort"

SAID a man who came into this store the other day: "I want a bed that won't rattle and that is good looking, or my wife won't have it in the house—a bed that is moderate in price, because I can't afford the expensive kind. What can you show?"

We took him to our display of the new Simmons Steel Beds which have just arrived. We showed him how the foot and head rods are electrically welded—thus doing away with nuts and bolts, which are sure at some time to come loose and rattle.

We explained that these beds are made of tempered steel tubing—so that they are one-third lighter than the old style iron beds. This means unmarred floors and a saving of rugs.

We told him just how the enamel was applied to the steel—four coats, baked separately—so that the bed was good for a lifetime of hard service.

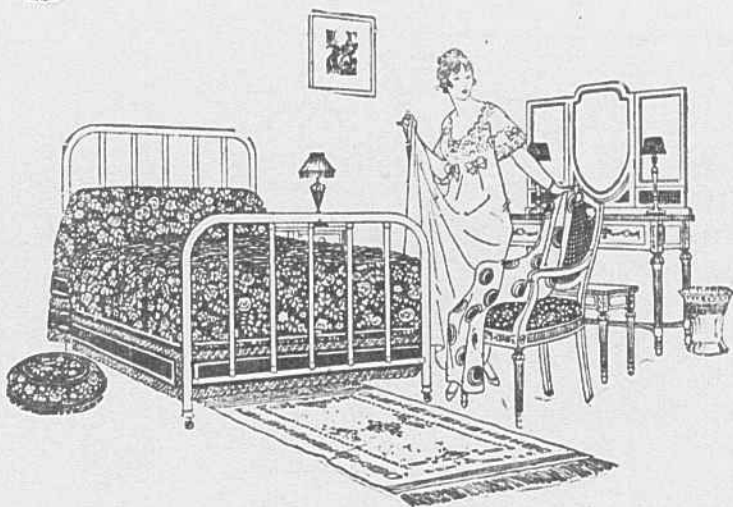

And we explained how his wife might choose any color she liked, or one of the smart-looking wood finishes now in vogue. Also, we mentioned the frictionless casters which insure great ease in moving.

Tonight that man is sleeping in comfort in a Simmons Bed. His wife says it is the best looking bed she has ever had in her home.

That is our idea of service to our patrons. May we not serve you?

IMPORTANT.

It must be self-evident to any intelligent person that the scientific roasting of coffee is a delicate process, involving not only complicated machinery but long experience. So many conditions enter into the results secured that without modern equipment of the most complete kind, uniformity is impossible. By modern equipment we mean separators for the removal of all imperfections and for the proper grading of the green berry preparatory to roasting, a detail without which uniformity in roast is out of the question; proper oversight during the delicate roasting process, which can only come from the trained eye of the expert, and the various other steps such as proper cooling and the supplementary separation of the roasted berry, all essential to definite results. Careless or ignorant handling of coffee before it is ready for the consumer is sure to bring about most unsatisfactory results.

The coffee sold by the Chicago Dairy is aged and roasted by no less a well-known firm than Chase & Sanborn, a house known to the American coffee-drinking public for almost a century, and whose honesty and business integrity is unimpeachable. Try some of the Chicago Dairy's 28c blend coffee and you will realize that to blend such a coffee and still be able to sell it at 28c required a lifetime of study of the coffee business. Chase & Sanborn have just such men. Men who have made it their life's work to form perfect blends of coffees.—Advertisement
